"THE MAGIC MEDALLION"

By CAPP

Copyright ©1992 by E.L. Publications.
All Rights Reserved.

PLEASE NOTE: In order to avoid paper damage, these pages have not been fastened with staples, clips, or any other type of paper fastener.

Shana kept fondling the medallion all through dinner. I finally asked her, "Where did you get that?""It's from my aunt Arabella" she answered. "She's something of a sorceress! It's supposed to give me ultimate power over any man I choose!" After dinner we settled on the couch. As I began caressing her shoulder I noticed the gemstone was beginning to glow...

"I feel strange", she said as she stood up. She looked taller! "Shana, are you alright?" I asked. She moaned as she began to writhe in an apparent state of ecstacy! It was then that I became certain that she was indeed growing! Before my eyes she began to expand as her dress became a tight silken film stretched over her luscious curves...

She quickly shot past 12 feet in height and as she approached 15 feet tall, she bent over as her back pressed against the ceiling. Her huge breasts burst out of her dress as it ripped open! The medallion was glowing brighter! She looked down at me and laughed. Then she lifted her arm and pushed upward...

The roof gave way as though it were made of toothpicks. Her towering form shot upward into the evening sky. Her clothes, long since reduced to shreds, had fallen away, yet the medallion kept pace with her increasing dimensions and continued to glow! Her huge feet were filling my living room as she knocked over furniture! As the wood fell away from her hands she stepped out of the house into the yard...

I ran outside. The first thing I saw was her colossal foot, now bigger than my car! I looked up past her tremendous thighs and the protruding hills of her breasts to see her gigantic smiling face looking down at me. She appeared to be nearly 100 feet tall! The medallion had ceased to glow. She laughed as she towered over the broken fragments of my house! Her huge figure bent downward. I froze with fear as her tremendous fingers reached toward me...

Enclosed in her hand I felt my stomach lurch as I rose upward. Her huge thumb and finger grabbed my shirt and I found myself dangling in front of her face! With her right hand she plucked off my shoes and pants as though she were undressing a doll! She laughed at my helplessness and as her huge moist, red lips parted, she lowered me toward her open mouth! Terrified, I closed my eyes, certain that I was about to be devoured by this beautiful, gigantic woman! I felt her rough tongue run across my leg...

Sitting down in a clearing among some trees, she placed me on the slope of her inner thigh and plucked away my shirt leaving me naked! Smiling, she began to caress the soft flesh of her labia. I tried to plead with her for mercy...but words failed me. Her deep voice boomed as she spoke down at me,"I guess it really works, eh little man?" The magical talisman was now as big as my entire body! "Now let's get down to business. C'mere..." Her hand closed around me once more.

I tried to struggle, but it was useless. She pressed my legs together and pushed me toward the mammoth, glistening lips of her vagina! I felt the soft moist walls of flesh surrounding my legs! I grasped at her fingers, but she effortlessly pushed my body completely inside the soft tunnel of her sex. I heard her laughter overhead as the sky went completely black!